No. 121.—The following Order of His Majesty in Council for varying the provisions of the Principal Order in Council of the 24th June 1912, in so far as they relate to the Kingdom of Italy, published in the London Gazette of the 10th February 1914, is republished for general information:—

"Whereas His Majesty, by virtue of the authority conferred on Him by the Copyright Act, 1911, and having regard to the provisions of the Berlin Copyright Convention, was pleased to make an Order in Council, dated the 24th day of June 1912 (hereinafter called the Principal Order), extending the protection of the said Act to certain classes of works to which protection is guaranteed by the said Convention:

And whereas it is provided in Article (3), proviso (i), of the Principal Order that Sections 1 (2) (d) and 19 of the Copyright Act, 1911, and such other part or parts thereof as confer upon the owner of the copyright in a literary, dramatic or musical work the exclusive right of making any record, perforated roll, cinematograph film, or other contrivance by means of which the work may be mechanically performed and such other part or parts thereof as confer copyright in any record or perforated roll shall not apply in the case of any work of which the country of origin is Italy:

And whereas His Majesty has received an assurance from the Italian Government to the effect that the widest protection is granted in Italy to works of British origin, to the authors of which is reserved the exclusive right of every form of reproduction, execution, or representation by any means whatever (including the cinematograph as well as mechanical musical instruments):

And whereas in view of this assurance it is expedient to revoke the provision above referred to in Article (2), proviso (3), of the Principal Order:

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, and by virtue of the authority conferred upon him by the Copyright Act, 1911, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

(1) The provisions of Article (2) proviso (3), of the Principal Order are hereby revoked so far as they relate to works of which the country of origin is Italy.

(2) In the application of the provisions of Article (3) of the Principal Order to works of which the country of origin is Italy, the commencement of this Order shall be substituted for the commencement of the Act and for the commencement of the Principal Order.

(3) In the application to works of which the country of origin is Italy of Sections 1 (2) (d) and 19 of the Copyright Act, 1911, the commencement of this Order shall be substituted for the commencement of the Act, and for the passing of the Act, in Sections 19 (2) and 28 (3), wherever those expressions occur, and the 1st day of July 1914 for the 1st day of July 1913.

(4) Where any person has, before the date of this Order, taken any action whereby he has incurred any expenditure or liability in connection with the reproduction or performance of any work at a time when such reproduction or performance would, but for the making of this Order, have been lawful, nothing in this Order shall diminish or prejudice any rights or interest arising from, or in connection with such action which are subsisting or valuable at the said date unless the person who, by virtue of this Order, becomes entitled to restrain such reproduction or performance agrees to pay such compensation as, failing agreement, may be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright Act, 1911.

(5) This Order shall come into operation on the first day of April 1914, which date is in this Order referred to as the commencement of the Order.

And the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury are to give the necessary orders accordingly."

ADMISSION OF STUDENTS INTO THE GOVERNMENT TRAINING SCHOOLS IN THE SEVENTH CIRCLE—1914.

The Inspector of Schools, Seventh Circle, hereby notifies for the information of the Assistant Inspectors, the Sub-Assistant Inspectors and the Managers of aided schools that candidates of the Elementary Grades will be admitted for training in July 1914 in the following Government Training Schools under his charge :—

Number	Name of institution.	Number of stipends available.		Total.
		Elementary Higher.	Elementary Lower
1	Government Training School, Dindigal	24	26	50
2	Government Training School, Tinnevelly	24	26	50

2. The period of training in two years in the case of the students of both the Elementary Higher and Lower Grades.

3. The Inspector of Schools will make the selection on the recommendation of the subordinate Inspecting Officers.

4. The Sub-Assistants are requested to forward to the Assistant Inspector two lists—one of selected and the other of rejected candidates.

5. The lists of selected and rejected candidates should be revised and submitted in a consolidated form in duplicate by the Assistant Inspectors to the Inspectors of Schools, Seventh Circle, before the due date. The names of selected candidates should appear in the list in the order in which the subordinate Inspecting Officers wish they should be taken, i.e., they should be selected in reference to their general educational attainments, their service as teachers, the need for their training and the nature of their appointment and the school from which they apply for training. Candidates who do not satisfy the condition of age limit under rule 114 of the Madras Educational Rules should not, except in very special circumstances, be included in the list and the selection should be regulated, as far as possible, by rule 115. In the case of rejected candidates, the reasons for rejection should be mentioned against each.

6. To provide for the contingency of some of the candidates selected not joining the Training School, a few more than the sanctioned number will be selected by the Inspector. All selected candidates who present themselves at the Training Schools on the opening day will be admitted; those who present themselves later will be admitted in the order in which they present themselves but only up to the number of sanctioned vacancies.

7. The list should include no one who has not been a teacher before or concerning whom there is a doubt whether he really intends to make teaching his profession.

8. In the selection of candidates for training next year, those who were awarded stipends this year but were refused admission on account of their not appearing in time might have a first claim for admission.

9. In addition to Provincial stipendiaries, candidates whose stipends are paid by Local or Municipal Boards will be admitted for training, as also private candidates as free students.

10. As regards the qualification for admission, only those candidates who have passed the annual examination of the third form or seventh standard and have been found fit for promotion to the fourth form or have been awarded an elementary school-leaving certificate of the seventh standard are eligible for admission into the Elementary Higher class and only those who have passed the late Primary examination or a corresponding public or school examination or whose attainments in the opinion of the Inspecting Officers are not lower than those are eligible for admission into the Elementary Lower class. Preference should be given, as much as possible, to candidates whose educational attainments are above these minimum requirements. The certificate of general education should be sent in original with the application. The certificate of physical fitness need be produced only by the candidates chosen as stipendiaries. Separate conduct certificates need not be submitted by candidates whose applications are signed by an Inspecting Officer.

11. Printed forms of applications can be obtained from the Inspector of Schools of the Circle.

12. The consolidated lists should reach the Inspector of Schools before the 10th May 1914.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PREPARATION OF THE TRUE RETURN OF INCOME REFERRED TO ABOVE.

(1) In the case of a firm, the ordinary designation of the firm should be entered in column 1.

(2) If the person or firm making the return has several places of residence or business, they should all be mentioned in column 2, the principal place of residence or business being specified.

(3) Column 3 should show all sources and amounts of income, specifying separately those chargeable under Parts I, II, III and IV of Schedule II of the Act, and the number of shares in such income and the names of shares. In this column should be entered in detail every separate source of income accruing and arising in British India. Salaries, pensions, annuities and gratuities are chargeable under Part I; interest on Government and other securities under Part II and other sources of income including the rental value of buildings occupied by owners calculated under section 24 of the Act, and interest on fixed deposits in any bank, joint stock company or other mercantile firm, are chargeable under Part IV of Schedule II of the Act.

(4) In column 4 should be entered the gross income accruing and arising during the year ending on the day on which the person's accounts have been last made up or if the person's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the 31st day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the 31st day of March. In this column, the period during which the income from each source has been derived should be specified.

(5) Against the gross receipts, no deductions should be made on account of disbursements or expenses not wholly and exclusively incurred in respect of the profits returned, nor on account of the maintenance of the assessee himself or his family or domestic establishment; nor shall any deduction be allowed on account of any tax, rate or cess to which the assessee is liable, other than a tax or rate imposed on the assessee, in respect of his ownership of any buildings or lands not used for agricultural purposes under sections 129, 145, 148 and 149 of Act III of 1884 (Madras), sections 63 and 75 of Act IV of 1884 (Madras), section 67 (i) and (ii) of Act V of 1884 (Madras) and section 17 of Act XIII, 1880 (India), (Notification No. 216, dated 17th April 1895, published on page 489, Part I of Fort St. George Gazette, dated 30th April 1895).

(6) A deduction for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity or a provision for wife or children or a payment to a Life Insurance Company should not be included from column 4, but should be included in the column headed "Total deductions" and supported in the insurances case by a receipt for such deduction or payment.

EXAMPLES OF DEDUCTIONS FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS WHICH ARE ADMISSIBLE.

(a) In the case of trades or professions.

(1) Sums actually expended in the repairs of implements, utensils or articles, used solely for the purposes of the profession or trade.

(2) Sums expended in insuring or keeping insured the buildings, machinery and plant, implements, and stock used for the purposes of the profession or trade. The deduction is confined to the premia (including subscriptions, etc.) paid during the year upon the income accruing in which the tax is assessed.

(3) The amount of rent paid for any premises exclusively used for such profession or trade.

N B.—Where they are not exclusively used for such profession or trade, only a fair proportion of such rent is admissible for deduction.

(4) The amount actually expended on repairs and renewals of such premises, if the repairs and renewals are at the cost of the assessee. The assessee must be prepared to prove the amount spent by means of vouchers.

(5) The amount expended as salaries of persons employed solely and exclusively in the profession or trade. When a firm has transactions both in and out of India and realizes profit in both by means of an establishment maintained in India in common for both, only a proportionate deduction is allowed (the exact proportion of which will be determined by the assessing officer in each case).

(6) The amount of any loss in trade or of the stock in trade actually written off during the year. In cases where there is loss in one trade or profession and profit in another, the loss may be set off against the profits, and any excess loss deducted. So also loss under any one part of the Schedule may be set off against income under any other part.

(7) The amount of any bad debt (or debts) bona fide and upon reasonable grounds written off as irrecoverable within the year, provided—

(i) that such bad debt (or debts) has been regularly brought forward in the ledger from year to year from the date on which the debt arose;

(ii) that it has been written off to profit and loss before;

(iii) that when once a particular debt has been bona fide and upon reasonable grounds written off to profit and loss in one year, no portion of such debt can be carried forward so as to be set off against or taken in deduction of the profits of the next or any succeeding year.

Note.—In writing off bad debts against the income of any year care must be taken to see that the amount is not unnecessarily deducted and not deducted more than once.

(8) Interest paid on borrowed capital. The assessee may be required to satisfy the assessing officer that only capital actually employed in his trade is taken into account in this connection.

N.B.—When the whole capital is not exclusively employed in the trade, only a fair proportion of the interest paid shall be deducted.

(9) Such miscellaneous and contingent charges as Commission or Discount—
Postage, Telegraphic, Law, Advertising and Stationery charges.
Shipping, Freight, Railway and other Transit charges.

N B.—The nature of the charge and the amount incurred under each should be distinctly demonstrable.

(10) Payments actually made to Insurance Companies for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity or a provision for wife or children or a payment to a Life Insurance Company, but not those set aside to form an Insurance Fund.

(11) Charges incurred in providing tiffin for assistants, clerks and constituents.

(12) An annual depreciation of 6 per cent. on the original value of machinery and plant to cover renewals and repairs, subject to the following restrictions :—

(a) No deduction for wear and tear or repayment on account of any such deduction shall be allowed in any year, if the deductions when added to the deductions allowed on that account in any previous years to the person by whom the concern is carried on will make the aggregate amount of the deductions exceed the actual cost to that person of the machinery or plant, including in that actual cost any expenditure in the nature of capital expenditure on the machinery or plant by way of renewal, improvement or reinstatement.

(b) Where, as respects any trade, manufacture, adventure or concern, full effect cannot be given to the deduction for wear and tear in any year owing to there being no profits or gains chargeable with income-tax in that year, or owing to the profits or gains so chargeable being less than the deduction, the deduction or part of the deduction to which effect has not been given, as the case may be, shall, for the purpose of making the assessment for the following year, be added to the amount of deduction for wear and tear for that year and deemed to be part of that deduction; or if there is no such deduction for that year be deemed to be the deduction for that year, and so on for succeeding years.

N.B.—Care should be taken to see that the deduction allowed represents the repairs and depreciation of only one year, i.e., the year the income of which is assessed.

(b) In cases of houses owned and let by the owner for rent.

(1) Sums expended in insuring or keeping insured such houses, the deduction being confined only to the premia (including subscriptions, etc.) paid during the year upon the income accruing in which the tax is assessed.

(2) Actual expenditure during the year on repairs and renewal of houses, if such repairs are at the cost of the assessee, but not depreciation in the value of such buildings.

(3) Sums expended in collecting the rent not exceeding 5 per cent. of the gross rental. The deduction applies only to direct payments.

(4) Any interest payable to a mortgagee not in possession, whether the interest has or has not been actually paid during the year.

(5) Any rent or quit-rent paid by the assessee on account of such houses, or their sites. (Notification No. 85, dated 28th February 1895, printed on pages 209 and 210, Part I of Fort St. George Gazette, dated 5th March 1895.)

(c) In cases of houses occupied by the owner for dwelling purposes under section 24 of Act II of 1886

(1) When buildings are occupied by their owners as dwelling houses, five-sixths of the estimated annual rent thereof shall be added to the net income under Part IV and the sum total assessed, provided that, where five-sixths of the annual rental value exceeds 15 per cent. of the assessee's income from all sources whether taxable or not, the excess shall be deducted from the five-sixths of the rental value and the remainder added to the net income under Part IV.

(2) Houses reserved for the use of the owner, but not occupied by him during the period which serves as the basis of assessment.

N.B.—The term renewal as used in the return refers only to such works as are intended to put the building in the same state as it was in when it was originally constructed, while any additional accommodation provided or any material alteration to the plan of the building shall be treated as an addition.

When a portion of the house is occupied by the owner and the remainder let out on hire, the portions should be treated as if they were separate houses and deductions allowed accordingly, i.e., either a sixth of the annual rent-value or actual expenditure on repairs and renewals, as the case may be.

EXAMPLES OF DEDUCTIONS FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS WHICH ARE NOT ADMISSIBLE.

(1) Amounts expended by Vakils on the purchase of Law books and stationery.

(2) Amounts set apart to form a Renewal Fund in cases where allowance is made for repairs under the rules.

(5) Interest on capital put in by the partners of the firm.

(6) Partner's allowances.

(7) Bad or doubtful debts not written off.

(8) Any set-off out of the profits of the year on account of ascertained losses of previous years.

(2) If the person or firm making the return has several places of residence or business, they should all be mentioned in column 2, the principal place of residence or business being specified.

(3) Column 3 should show all sources and amounts of income, specifying separately those chargeable under Parts I, II, III and IV of Schedule II of the Act, and the number of shares in such income and the names of shares. In this column should be entered in detail every separate source of income accruing and arising in British India. Salaries, pensions, annuities and gratuities are chargeable under Part I, interest on Government and other securities under Part II and other sources of income including the rental-value of buildings occupied by owners calculated under section 24 of the Act, and interest on fixed deposits in any bank, joint stock company or other mercantile firm, are chargeable under Part IV of Schedule II of the Act.

(4) In column 4 should be entered the gross income accruing and arising during the year ending on the day on which the person's accounts have been last made up or if the person's accounts have not been made up within the year ending on the 31st day of March in the year immediately preceding that for which the assessment is to be made, then during the year ending on the 31st day of March. In this column, the period during which the income from each source has been derived should be specified.

(5) Against the gross receipts, no deductions should be made on account of disbursements or expenses not wholly and exclusively incurred in respect of the profits returned, nor on account of the maintenance of the assessee himself or his family or domestic establishment; nor shall any deduction be allowed on account of any tax, rate or cess to which the assessee is liable, other than a tax or rate imposed on the assessee, in respect of his ownership of any buildings or lands not used for agricultural purposes under sections 129, 145, 148 and 149 of Act III of 1884 (Madras), sections 83 and 75 of Act IV of 1884 (Madras), section 57 (i) and (ii) of Act V of 1884 (Madras), section 17 of Act XIII, 1890 (India), (Notification No. 216, dated 24th April 1895, published on page 489, Part I of the Fort St. George Gazette, dated 30th April 1895)

(6) A deduction for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity or a provision for wife or children or a payment to a Life Insurance Company should not be excluded from column 4, but should be included in the column headed "Total deductions" and supported in the assessee case by a receipt for such deduction or payment.

EXAMPLES OF DEDUCTIONS FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS WHICH ARE ADMISSIBLE.

(a) In the case of trades or professions.

(1) Sums actually expended in the repairs of implements, utensils or articles, used solely for the purpose of the profession or trade.

(2) Sums expended in insuring or keeping insured the buildings, machinery and plant, implements, and stock used for the purpose of the profession or trade. The deduction is confined to the premia (including subscriptions, etc.) paid during the year upon the income accruing in which the tax is assessed.

(3) The amount of rent paid for any premises exclusively used for such profession or trade.

N.B.—Where they are not exclusively used for such profession or trade, only a fair proportion of such rent is admissible for deduction.

(4) The amount actually expended on repairs and renewals of such premises, if the repairs and renewals are at the cost of the assessee. The assessee must be prepared to prove the amount spent by means of vouchers.

(5) The amount expended as salaries of persons employed solely and exclusively in the profession or trade. When a firm has transactions both in and out of India and realizes profit in both by means of an establishment maintained in India in common for both, only a proportionate deduction is allowed (the exact proportion of which will be determined by the assessing officer in each case)

(6) The amount of any loss in trade or of the stock in trade actually written off during the year In cases where there is loss in one trade or profession and profit in another, the loss may be set off against the profits, and any excess loss deducted. So also loss under any one part of the Schedule may be set off against income under any other part.

(7) The amount of any bad debt (or debts) bona fide and upon reasonable grounds written off as irrecoverable within the year, provided—

(i) that such bad debt (or debts) has been regularly brought forward in the ledger from year to year from the date on which the debt arose;

(ii) that it has been written off to profit and loss before;

(iii) that when once a particular debt has been bona fide and upon reasonable grounds written off to profit and loss in one year, no portion of such debt can be carried forward so as to be set off against or taken in deduction of the profits of the next or any succeeding year.

Note.—In writing off bad debts against the income of any year care must be taken to see that the amount is not unnecessarily deducted and not deducted more than once

(8) Interest paid on borrowed capital. The assessee may be required to satisfy the assessing officer that only capital actually employed in his trade is taken into account in this connection.

N.B.—When the whole capital is not exclusively employed in the trade, only a fair proportion of the interest paid shall be deducted.

(9) Such miscellaneous and contingent charges as Commission or Discount—

Postage, Telegraphic, Law, Advertising and Stationery charges.

Shipping, Freight, Railway and other Transit charges.

N.B.—The nature of the charge and the amount incurred under each should be distinctly demonstrable

(10) Payments actually made to Insurance Companies for the purpose of securing a deferred annuity or a provision for wife or children or a payment to a Life Insurance Company, but not those set aside to form an Insurance Fund

(11) Charges incurred in providing tiffin for assistants, clerks and constituents.

(12) An annual depreciation of 6 per cent on the original value of machinery and plant to cover renewals and repairs, subject to the following restrictions:—

(a) No deduction for wear and tear or repayment on account of any such deduction, shall be allowed in any year, if the deduction when added to the deductions allowed on that account in any previous years to the person by whom the concern is carried on will make the aggregate amount of the deductions exceed the actual cost to that person of the machinery or plant, including in that actual cost any expenditure in the nature of capital expenditure on the machinery or plant by way of renewal, improvement or reinstatement

(b) Where, in respect any trade, manufacture, adventure or concern, full effect cannot be given to the deduction for wear and tear in any year owing to there being no profits or gains chargeable with income-tax in that year, or owing to the profits or gains so chargeable being less than the deduction, the deduction or part of the deduction to which effect has not been given, as the case may be, shall, for the purpose of making the assessment for the following year, be added to the amount of deduction for wear and tear for that year and deemed to be part of that deduction, or if there is no such deduction for that year be deemed to be the deduction for that year, and so on for succeeding years.

N.B.—Care should be taken to see that the deduction allowed represents the repairs, and depreciation of only one year, i.e., the year the income of which is assessed

(b) In case of houses owned and let by the owner for rent.

(1) Sums expended in insuring or keeping insured such houses, the deduction being confined only to the premia (including subscriptions, etc.) paid during the year upon the income accruing in which the tax is assessed.

(2) Actual expenditure during the year on repairs and renewal of houses, if such repairs are at the cost of the assessee, but not depreciation in the value of such buildings.

(3) Sums expended in collecting the rent not exceeding 6 per cent. of the gross rental. The deduction applies only to direct payments.

(4) Any interest payable to a mortgagee not in possession, whether the interest has or has not been actually paid during the year.

(5) Any rent or quit-rent paid by the assessee on account of such houses, or their sites. (Notification No. 39, dated 20th February 1896, printed on pages 209 and 210, Part I of the Fort St. George Gazette, dated 5th March 1895.)

(c) In case of houses occupied by the owner for dwelling purposes under section 24 of Act II of 1886.

(1) When buildings are occupied by their owners as dwelling houses, five-sixths of the estimated annual rent thereof shall be added to the net income under Part IV and the sum total assessed, provided that, where five-sixths of the annual rental value exceeds 10 per cent. of the assessee's income from all sources whether taxable or not, the excess shall be deducted from the five-sixths of the rental value and the remainder added to the net income under Part IV.

(2) Houses reserved for the use of the owner, but not occupied by him during the period which serves as the basis of assessment.

N.B.—The term renewal as used in the return refers only to such works as are intended to put the building in the same state as it was in when it was originally constructed, while any additional accommodation provided or any material alteration to the plan of the building shall be treated as an addition.

When a portion of the house is occupied by the owner and the remainder let out on hire, the portions should be treated as if they were separate houses and deductions allowed accordingly, i.e., either a sixth of the annual rent-value or actual expenditure on repairs and renewals, as the case may be.

EXAMPLES OF DEDUCTIONS FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS WHICH ARE NOT ADMISSIBLE

(1) Amounts expended by Vakils on the purchase of Law books and stationery.
(2) Amounts set apart to form a Renewal Fund in cases where allowance is made for repairs under the rules.

(4) Amount spent in or set apart for repayment of debts.
(5) Interest on capital put in by the partners of the firm.
(6) Partner's allowances.
(7) Bad or doubtful debts not written off.
(8) Any set-off out of the profits of the year on account of ascertained losses of previous years.
(9) Public or local rates, cesses or taxes other than such taxes or rates as under paragraph (5) of the instructions given above may be deducted. (Notification No. 89, dated 20th February 1895, printed on pages 209 and 210, Part I of Fort St. George Gazette, dated 5th March 1895.)
(10) Cost of maintenance of the assessee himself or his family or domestics.
(11) Bonuses paid to domestic servants.
(12) Christmas presents to domestic servants.
(13) Subscription to races, charities and schools, etc.
(14) Tiffin expenses of partners of a firm when these can be separately ascertained.
(15) Interest not received in cash, a bond being taken for the same.
(16) Deductions for depreciation in the value of buildings.
(17) Payments made to form an Insurance Fund against future losses.

The cistern of the Barometer is twenty-two feet above the level of the sea and the receiver of the Rain Gauge is two feet from the ground. The wind, rain and general weather registered are for the current Civil Day—from midnight to midnight.

The total quantity of rain collected since January 1st is 1·01 inches, the average due for the same period being 1·47 inches.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

When the Penal Code became law in 1860 conditions in India were such that its framers were in a position to disregard that class of contempt which is known to English law as scandalizing the Courts. But subsequent developments have demonstrated the necessity of affording greater protection to the Courts against attempts to lower their prestige, and of checking the practice, which has manifested itself to a serious extent in recent years, of commenting on cases pending before the Courts in a manner which constitutes a serious menace to the dispassionate administration of public justice.

Section 228, Indian Penal Code, renders punishable an intentional insult or interruption to a public servant sitting in a judicial proceeding, but does not provide for the punishment of contempts of the authority of judicial officers not committed in their presence, or of improper comments on their proceedings in cases under trial. A recent decision of the Calcutta High Court, In re the King Emperor versus Girindra Mohun Das and others, read with the decision of the Madras High Court, In re K. Venkata Rao (XXI, Madras, Law Journal, 832), has raised doubts how far a Chartered High Court can protect subordinate Courts in respect of such contempts, and it is also at least questionable whether the unrestricted jurisdiction of any Court to punish contempts summarily is the best way of combating the evil. The trend of modern opinion is rather in the direction of dealing with contempts as a substantive offence and not as a matter to be dealt with summarily, and this is more particularly desirable where the contempt is not committed in open Court

The draft Bill accordingly proposes to make punishable, by amendment of the Indian Penal Code,—

(1) the contempt of the authority of Courts or persons empowered by law to record evidence on oath ; and

(2) the publication of false or misleading reports of pending cases, or of objectionable comments upon them.

At the same time, in order to safeguard the proper exercise of these powers, an amendment of the Code of Criminal Procedure is provided for, so that prosecutions for the above offences shall be undertaken only upon complaint made by order of, or under authority from, the Governor General in Council, the Local Government, or some officer empowered by the Governor General in this behalf; and that such cases shall be triable only by a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class.

Certain exceptions and explanations have also been inserted in the draft Bill, which are designed to protect bona fide comments or reports.

2. We have amended the definition of "illicit intercourse" in clause 3, so as to make it clear that intercourse between persons bound by any union or tie which is recognised by the personal law of the community to which they belong, is not illicit intercourse within the meaning of section 372 and section 373 of the Indian Penal Code. It appears to us that the clause as redrawn gives effect to the intention of the Bill in a more definite manner than the clause contained in the Bill committed to us.

3. In deference to some opinions we have received we have modified the language of the first paragraph of clause 3 so as to provide that a presumption similar to that which is proposed in the Bill as regards prostitutes shall apply to cases in which minors are disposed of to brothel-keepers. This change has necessitated a consequential amendment in clause 4.

4. The provisions of the Bill dealing with the question of the custody of minors have been discussed by us at great length, and have received our most careful attention. We have considered all possible aspects of the case, and have endeavoured, as far as possible, to meet the views of individual members of the Committee.

5. The main changes which we have made are summarised below:

In the first place we have amended the Bill so as to admit of orders under the provisions in question being made by any first class Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government. We think such an extension of jurisdiction will be convenient and free from danger. We have, on the other hand, restricted the manner in which proceedings can be instituted, by providing that no Magistrate shall take action under these provisions, save on information received from some person other than a Police-officer.

6. It has been brought to our notice that the fact that a girl is living in a house used for prostitution, is not, having regard to conditions in India, a circumstance which would necessarily justify the presumption raised by the English law in such a case; we have therefore amended sub-clause (b) of the proposed section 552 A (1), so as to elucidate the fact that only girls who are in danger of prostitution are intended to come within the scope of the sub-clause, and with the same object, we have deleted the words "or seduction" from the same sub-clause.

7. We were much pressed to restrict the power of the Magistrate in selecting a custodian to the appointment of a person of the same religion as the minor. After much deliberation, we have arrived at the decision which is embodied in the Bill as amended, namely, that where the religion of the minor is known or can be ascertained, she shall not be made over to any custody other than that of a co-religionist. We have also added a clause which provides that, in determining the person to whom custody of a minor should be committed, preference shall be given to a relative. There are in our opinion obvious reasons for giving preference to a relative in such cases.

8. We have inserted a clause authorising the Magistrate to accept security from the guardian of a minor in lieu of making an order committing such minor to other custody. We think that there may be cases in which the interests of the minor will be sufficiently safeguarded if such security is furnished.

9. The Bill as introduced empowered Magistrates to commit minors to suitable custody until they attained the age of majority. It was represented to us that, regard being had to the conditions of this country, no useful purpose would be served by permitting the custody to continue for so extended a period. We have therefore modified the Bill so as to provide that orders under these provisions shall only have effect until the minor attains the age of sixteen, or for such shorter period as the Magistrate thinks fit. We observe that the English law is a somewhat analogous case prescribes the same age.

10. As an additional safeguard, we have also provided for an appeal against any order committing a minor to custody, and for the guidance of Magistrates taking proceedings under these provisions of the law, we have incorporated in the Bill directions which are based on the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890. Finally, we have inserted a clause which renders the custodian of a minor who fails to observe the conditions annexed to an order of custody liable to punishment in the Criminal Courts.

11. We have deleted that portion of clause 6 of the Bill which provided for the realisation of the cost of maintenance of a minor from the parent or person liable to support her, as it has been suggested to us that such a provision might, in some cases, give rise to complications and hardships.

12. We have inserted a new clause definitely to provide for the procedure to be adopted by Magistrates taking action under these clauses, and the Bill as amended lays down that no order committing a minor to custody shall be made, until those interested in the minor have had an opportunity of showing cause and adducing evidence to prove that an order is unnecessary.

13. We have made provision for a case in which the minor dealt with under these provisions is removed beyond the jurisdiction of the Magistrate making the original order.

14. We have extended the provisions of the Bill as submitted to us, to provide more definitely for the savings of the powers of Civil Courts, and have also made provisions for a like saving in the case of Courts of Wards.

The remaining amendments are not of sufficient importance to make it necessary for us to deal with them in detail in this Report.

MINUTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE MR. C. VIJIARAGHAVACHARIAR.

THE amendments which have been made in Select Committee have removed some of the defects to which I drew attention when this Bill was referred to Select Committee, but it is still open to serious objections in many particulars. The more important of these provisions are noted below:—

2. I consider that any measure intended to secure the protection of minor girls against immoral contamination will not adequately effect the desired purpose unless intercourse with unmarried girls under the age of, at least, 14 years is made a penal offence. In view of the existing conditions of society in India I recognise that it is inexpedient to attempt to modify the Bill in this respect as regards married young women, but the case of unmarried girls stands on a different footing. In my opinion intercourse with such girls between the ages of 12 and 14 should be made a criminal offence, irrespective of whether the girl consents to such intercourse or not. I do not think that the punishment of those guilty of such intercourse should be as severe as that provided by section 376 of the Indian Penal Code for rape, but they should certainly be liable to the penalty provided in section 3 of the Indian Penal Code for indecent assault, i.e., 2 years' rigorous imprisonment, and for these reasons I think that a clause of this character, which would, to some extent follow the English Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1885, should be added to the Bill.

It is also, in my opinion, necessary to add to the provisions of sections 372 and 373 of the Indian Penal Code a clause penalising those who have intercourse with a girl knowing that she has been sold or otherwise disposed of for illicit intercourse or for any purpose specified in those sections. If such a clause is not added, the law remains incomplete and many of the persons who should be liable to punishment escape this liability and no considerations of policy in my view arise to justify the immunity of such persons.

3. In regard to the new provisions which will be inserted by the Bill in the Code of Criminal Procedure, I think in the first place that the scope of those provisions which may shortly be termed the rescue provisions, should be restricted to unmarried girls, as in my opinion, any attempt to extend these provisions to married girls will cause grave discontent and be open to serious objection. It must be remembered that the one object of the measure is to minimise, as far as law can do it, the risk of prostitution to which tender girls may be exposed. But when girls are married it is clear that they are not intended for a life of shame and the State may well leave them to the care of their relations. I have no objection to securing power of interference in the extreme and rare case of a husband going through the form of marriage with minor girls and making money of them.

4. I also think that the custodian appointed under this provision should only have such authority as may enable him to give effect to the intentions of the Bill, viz., to educate the girl and to protect her from contamination. It is, in my opinion, very dangerous to give him the extensive powers provided by the Act, in particular, I would restrict the powers of such custodian in regard to marriage as the rights of the natural guardian in this respect should be retained, even if it has been found necessary to remove her from the custody of such guardian temporarily. The hardship and injustice would be the more obvious where such guardian has not been party to the misconduct of the girl leading to her 'contamination.'

5. As to details, I am of opinion that in some respects the Bill as amended goes too far and in other respects it restricts the power of a magistrate unnecessarily. In the first place I do not think that it is necessary to authorise a magistrate to make an order under new section 552 B unless there is reason to believe that the prostitution of the girl will be encouraged by the influence or through the agency of a prostitute or brothel-keeper, and I consider that the language of clause (b) of section 552 A is unnecessarily wide and dangerous. I further think that the proviso to clause (a) should not be limited to the case of a mother, but, in view of conditions in India, should be extended to other near relatives such as a grandmother or a sister, and further that the same proviso should also apply to minors who come within the scope of clause (b) of the same section.

6. On the other hand I incline to the view that the limitations providing that no minor shall be made over to the custody of any person not of her own religion is unnecessarily narrow as there may well be institutions of an denominational character to which the minor might calmly be made over if sufficient safeguards were provided to secure that she were not converted to another faith.

7. I am unable to accept the view that magistrates in annexing the conditions to an order making over the minor to custody should be allowed to do so only with the consent of the person to whom the custody of the minor is committed" should be deleted in sub-section (3) of the proposed section 552B and that a similar modification should be made in clause (4) of section 552 B (4).

8. I also consider that it is very necessary that the Local Governments should be given power to make rules regulating and defining the power of the custodian appointed under these provisions of the Bill.

It is to be observed that under the Children's Act 1908, the Secretary of State has analogous powers, and it is necessary in the interests of those committed to custody under the new provisions that similar powers should be exercised by the Government of this country.

9. I believe that no case has been made out for restraining the jurisdiction of Civil Courts to the extent proposed by the Bill. It should be quite sufficient if suits to impeach or question the validity of proceedings of Criminal Courts under the Bill are prohibited. Cases can be easily imagined in which the guardian lawfully appointed under the new law may be found misconducting himself in respect of his ward in several ways, and it would not be in the interests of the girl, or in the public interest, to prevent her relations from seeking prompt relief in a Civil Court. The discretion vested in a magistrate to vary his original order is most inadequate for the purpose of meeting all such cases. Besides he has no power of issuing a temporary injunction pending investigation.

The new guardian might suddenly start for South Africa or the West Indies with the girls committed to his charge.

10. I think it most desirable that, where the relatives of the girl to be rescued demand it, the inquiry should be held before a jury. It must not be forgotten that the Bill aims in the main at the protection of minor girls against probable future contamination. The judgment must, from the very nature of the circumstances, be highly speculative, and the task of the magistrate would often be most embarrassing. A jury drawn from the people amidst whom the prostitutes live would be of great help in assisting the magistrate and saving him from possible odium.

We must remember that prostitution in certain forms continues to be recognised by large classes of people in this country and social intercourse between them and the rest of the society is common and without reproach. A magistrate, especially if he is not an Indian of experience, is apt to misunderstand and misinterpret the significance and effect of several circumstances arising from this social intercourse. Social intercourse with Devadasis and Baasvis of Southern India is a totally different thing from visiting the company of a prostitute in the dark purlieus of a Western City.

11. I think that the object of these rescue provisions would be the better achieved and Indian society would the more readily co-operate with the authorities if Government starts free boarding schools and orphanages for girls in an increasing rate. Individual custodians of fallen and falling girls are not ordinarily desirable in the interests of girls or in their own, and private homes are few and not always very satisfactorily managed.

12. In conclusion, I desire to state that the time allowed for me to place on record my opinion in regard to the Bill as finally amended has been very short and for these reasons I have not been able to make this minute as complete or exhaustive as I should otherwise have desired. If, however, the recommendation of the Committee that the Bill be republished is accepted by Council it is hoped that a further opportunity of examining the Bill in detail will be furnished.

The 10th March 1915. C. VIJIARAGHAVACHARIAR

MINUTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE MR. V. R. PANDIT.

I support the principle of this Bill and appreciate the improvements effected in the Select Committee. At the same time I am of opinion that this occasion might have been availed of to make a greater response to a growing national feeling and raise ex-matrimonial age of consent for girls from 12 to at least 14 years. The provisions of the Bill are, in my opinion, capable of further improvement, and in particular I would invite attention to the desirability of including within the range of the agencies, through which the beneficent purpose of clause 6 of the Bill is sought to be achieved, homes other than those exclusively managed by persons professing the same religion as that of the rescued girl, provided adequate safeguards were introduced against interference with the religion of the girl.

V. R. PANDIT.

MINUTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE PANDIT MADAN MOHAN MALAVIYA.

The amendments which have been made in the Select Committee have removed some defects which existed in the Bill as it was introduced into the Council. The Bill has further been improved by the introduction of certain safeguards which are always needed in a measure of this character. To this extent the Bill as amended has my support. But some departures from the original provisions of the Bill have, in my opinion, undesirably enlarged the scope of the Bill and there are some further safeguards necessary to ensure that the Bill shall only serve the humane purpose which it is intended to serve, and not lead to unnecessary hardship. I will indicate these below.

But before I come to these, I would urge that the age of consent should be raised as against every one except the husband from 12 to 14 years, or at least to 13 years. Under the English law defilement of a girl under 13 years of age is punishable as felony (see section 4, Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885), and defilement of a girl who is above the age of 13 years and under the age of 16 years is punishable as a misdemeanour (see section 5 of the same Act). It seems to me extremely desirable that a similar protection should be given to girls at least up to the age of 13 years, particularly in view of the amendments of the law which the present Bill proposes to introduce.

I would also add a section after 373 to punish carnal intercourse with a girl who has been obtained in any of the ways specified in section 372 by a man who knows that she has been so obtained. In the absence of such a section, the agents will be punished, but the principal will go scot-free.

Clause (b) of section 552A stood in the original Bill as follows :—

"(b) Is lodging or residing in a house, or other place used as a human dwelling, or the part of a house or such place, used by any prostitute for purposes of prostitution, or is otherwise living in circumstances calculated to cause, encourage or favour the seduction or prostitution of the child."

This practically followed the wording of section 58 (1) (g) of the Children Act, 1908. In the form of the clause as amended by the Select Committee, the first portion is entirely omitted, for reasons given in paragraph 6 of the Report. I consider the omission regrettable. The sentence omitted was, in my opinion, used in the English Act, and is the original Bill, to bring prominently before the mind of the Magistrate the kind of danger from which girls under 16 are to be protected. It is true that the second sentence of the clause as it stands in the English Act, if taken apart from its context, is capable of being interpreted as referring to circumstances entirely unconnected with any prostitute. But I submit that ejusdem generis the second portion read with the first would indicate that it was meant to refer to circumstances similar to those mentioned in the first. As the clause now stands in the amended Bill, the scope of the Magistrate's enquiry has been greatly widened. And I consider this objectionable in view of the fact that there are no certified Industrial schools, or homes such as exist in England, for the reception of girls who may be brought under the operation of the wider provision proposed by the Select Committee. I would substitute the following clause for clause (b) of the Bill :—

"(b) Is lodging or residing in a house, or the part of a house, used by any prostitute for the purposes of prostitution, or living in circumstances calculated to cause, encourage or favour her prostitution by the influence or agency of any prostitute, or the keeper or manager of a brothel."

The law can be amended after a few years' experience of the working of the Act in this limited form, and when, with the co-operation of the Government and the people, homes have been provided for the reception of girls who may come within the scope of the broader provisions of the Bill as proposed by the Committee.

I am also strongly of opinion that the provisions of the Bill should not apply to females under 18 who have been married. The marriage of a girl alters her status, and as a rule affords her a protection against temptation and exposure to evil which her unmarried sister does not enjoy. She should therefore not be liable to be dealt with under this Act. It may be that this may result in protection being refused in some cases in which it may be needed. But the inclusion of married females is likely to lead to much greater hardship and will give rise to much dissatisfaction. For these reasons I would add a second proviso to section 552A (1) as below:—

"Provided also that no female under 18 years who has been married shall be treated as coming within the scope of this section, except where the court is satisfied on inquiry that the marriage is a mere pretext for avoiding the provisions of the Act."

I would alter clauses 2 and 3 of section 552B as follows:—

"(2) where the religion of the female is known or can after reasonable enquiry be ascertained, a suitable person who is of the same religion as such female is willing to undertake her custody; and (3) where the religion of the female is not known or cannot after reasonable inquiry be ascertained, a suitable person is willing to undertake her custody and to give such an undertaking as to the court seems sufficient that she shall not be converted to any particular faith so long as she remains in his charge."

I would add a 4th clause as follows:—

"any other suitable person."

And after clause 3 of section 552B, I would add:—

"In any case where the female has been placed pursuant to an order under this section with a person who has not given such an undertaking as aforesaid, the court which made the order, or any court of like jurisdiction, shall on the application of any person in that behalf, and on its appearing that a fit person who will give such an undertaking as aforesaid, is willing to undertake the care of the female, make an order to secure her being placed with a person who gives such an undertaking as aforesaid."

The amendments recommended by the Select Committee fully secure that where the religion of a child is known or can after reasonable enquiry be ascertained, she shall be made over to the custody of a person of the same religion. This is quite satisfactory so far. But in the case of female minors whose religion is not known or cannot be ascertained at the time of making an order, the Bill permits the Magistrate to commit the minor to the custody of any suitable person, irrespective of his religion. The object of the further amendment which I suggest is that, in such cases, the child shall, preferably, be entrusted to the care of a person or association who would give an undertaking that the child shall not be converted to any particular faith until she is to his or their charge. I would provide that, in the absence of a person willing to give such an undertaking, a child may be made over to the custody of any suitable person without such an undertaking; but in that case again I would provide on the analogy of section 23 (6) of the Children Act, 1908, that when a suitable person comes forward to give such an undertaking the Magistrate shall order the custody of the child to be transferred to such a person.

The object of my amendments is that every reasonable safeguard should be provided against the provisions of this Act leading indirectly to the conversion of a female minor who is brought under the humane provisions of this Act. In support of this view I would invite attention to the following passage in the opinion of the Hon'ble Mr. T. Richmond, Barrister-at-Law, of Madras. The remarks were written when the Bill stood in its original form. But they still illustrate my point so far as the care of children whose religion is not known, or cannot be ascertained, at the time of making the order, are concerned. Says the Hon'ble gentleman:—

"4. Under section 5, clause 3 (3), the Magistrate can make over the child to the Salvation Army or any such missionary body in the absence of a person or association of the child's religion willing to take over the minor. I know of no such associations in this Presidency except the local Society for the Protection of children working in a small way. The result will be that bodies like the Salvation Army and others who are earnest workers in the purity cause will constantly set the law in motion and get the minors into their hands and possibly also succeed in converting them to the Christian faith. I admit the result would be so far good, but I am not, however, equally sure of its expediency, as in the eyes of the ordinary uneducated man and woman, who after all form the bulk of the population, the measure, when successfully worked by the missionary agencies, may appear to them, especially in the mufassal, where there are not likely to be competing agencies, as mere or less a Government measure for proselytizing these minors to the Christian faith. I will only say that the matter requires consideration from this standpoint."

After section 552B (2) I would put in the following clauses:—

1 "If the female has a parent or legal guardian, no order shall be made under this section, unless it has been proved to the satisfaction of the court making the order that the female has been exposed to the risk of prostitution, or living a life of prostitution, with the knowledge of her parent or guardian, or that the parent or guardian cannot be found."

[Cf. section 21 (2) of the Children Act, 1908.]

2 "The Local Government may at any time in its discretion discharge a female from the care of any person to whose care she is committed in pursuance of this section, either absolutely or on such conditions as the Local Government approves."

[Cf. section 21 (5) of the Children Act, 1908.]

3. "No person to whose care a female is committed under this section shall remove her out of the jurisdiction of the court which made the order about her custody or procure her emigration, except with the authority of the Local Government."

[Cf. section 21 (6) of the Children Act, 1908.]

From clause 3 of section 552B I would omit the words "with the consent of the person to whose custody the female is committed." I would also omit the same words from (4 b) of the same section.

In section 552D (1) after the words "be deemed to be the lawful guardian of such female," I would add the following "for the purposes of this Act", and after clause 1 of the same section I would add:—

"No guardian appointed under this Act shall have the right as such to dispose of his ward in marriage without an express authority from the court which committed her to his custody, or from a court of like jurisdiction;

"(2) The natural guardian of the female respecting whom an order has been passed under section 552B may give away such female in marriage with the permission of the court which passed such an order. The Magistrate shall give such permission except where he has reason to believe that the proposed marriage is not a bona fide arrangement."

In clause 3, section 552D, I would make it clear that the power of the High Court for revision is not taken away by the section. I would restore section 552B of the Bill as it stood in the original Bill which empowers the court to pass an order for a contribution by the parents or the legal guardians of a female transferred from their custody for the maintenance of the child, with this further provisoo, that "the Local Government may in its discretion remit wholly or partially any payment ordered under this section." [Cf. section 75 (2) of the Children Act, 1908.]

A contribution by a parent or a guardian for the maintenance of the child will keep up the natural tie between the parent or guardian and the child, and will bring it home to the parent or guardian that the removal of the child from their custody is meant only for the welfare of the child and not to break up the natural tie between them and child. The section gives a discretion to the Magistrate to pass an order for contribution where he is satisfied that the parent or guardian is in a position to make such contribution, and the further proviso which I suggest will provide for relief in any case in which the order is likely to work hardship. This section if restored would come in as 552E.

I would add a further section as 552F, as follows:—

"The Local Government may make rules for the guidance of Magistrates in regard to instructions and conditions to be annexed to any order under this Act, and for safeguarding the welfare of females in respect of whom orders under this Act are made; in particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions, such rules may provide for facilitating the marriage of a female in accordance with the custom of her tribe or caste, and also to provide that any institution where a female is placed under the provision of this Act, should be visited and inspected from time to time by persons appointed by him for the purpose" [Cf., section 28 of the Children Act, 1908.]

I would also add a section like section 38 of the Children Act, 1908, as follows:—

"In this Act unless the context otherwise requires the expression 'suitable person' in relation to the custody of a female minor includes any society or body corporate established for the reception or protection of such minors."

I regret that owing to want of time I have not been able to give at full length the reasons for the suggestions I have noted above. But I wish generally to say that in view of the fact that a measure of the kind is being introduced for the first time in this country, the Act should in my opinion contain provisions similar to those of the Children Act of 1908, of England, to which I have referred. It should be remembered that there are numerous certified industrial schools, reformatory schools, and a large number of homes in England for the reception of children rescued from unsatisfactory surroundings. We have very few of such institutions at present in India. Yet the English Act contains many safeguards which are wanting in the Bill in question. I feel that in the present circumstances of this country there is much greater need for such safeguards here than in England. And I therefore recommend that these should be provided before the Bill is put into its final shape and passed.

MINUTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE Mr. MADHU SUDAN DAS.

In my opinion the modification of the Bill which has been made by the insertion of clause (iii) of the section 552 B, which it is proposed to add to the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, is open to objection. It will create difficulties and will seriously impair the utility of the new provision of the law.

M. S. DAS.

MINUTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJEE.

I sign the Report of the Select Committee subject to the following note of dissent:—

1. I think that intercourse with an unmarried girl between the age of 12 and 14 should be made a criminal offence, whether the girl is a consenting party to such intercourse or not, and that the Bill should include a clause to this effect, the punishment being that prescribed in England for such an offence under the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885. I also think that the penal provisions of section 373 should be extended to any person who has intercourse with a girl under sixteen years of age knowing that she has been bought or hired with any of the intentions specified in that section.

2. I am of opinion that the rescue provisions of the Bill should not apply to married girls except where the marriage is a mere pretext and that the powers of the guardian should be restricted to matters falling within the scope of the Bill.

3. Under the Bill (section 552 B) a rescued minor girl can only be made over to the custody of a suitable person of the same religion. No provision is made in the Bill for the custody of rescued girls when such persons are not forthcoming. Cases may occur when persons of the same religion may not be found who would take charge of the rescued girls. They should not be sent back to the brothels or to their former custodians but should be made over by the Magistrate to persons or institutions professing a different religion, subject to the condition that such minor girls shall not be permitted to change their religion until they have attained their majority.
